

TRIO E.T.A.

ELENE MEIPARIANI - VIOLINE

TILL SCHULER - VIOLONCELLO

TILL HOFFMANN - KLAVIER

There could hardly be a more fitting name for this trio. The Trio E. T. A. has chosen to associate itself with the writer, composer and critic E. T. A. Hoffmann. When Elene Meipariani (violin), Till Schuler (cello) and Till Hoffmann (piano) started playing together, they first chose romantic music, but they soon discovered their love for creative interconnections. Now their repertoire spans the wealth of chamber music from the classical to the contemporary periods. Because of his versatility and his regard for music as the highest art form, E.T.A. Hoffmann serves as an inspiration for the musicians. In addition to performing masterpieces for piano trio, they are particularly interested in lesser-heard or fascinating new discoveries as well as contemporary music. This interest led to Isabel Mundry dedicating a work to the Trio E.T.A. that will be premiered in 2023.

In 2021 the young ensemble was awarded the German Music Competition prize, the special prize of the Rotary Club of Bonn as well as the prize of the Friends of Young Musicians Germany. The promising development of the Trio E.T.A. has since been supported with a large number of concert offers. In 2021-22, the trio made its debut at the Konzerthaus in Berlin, the European Cultural Forum of Mainau, the Beethoven House in Bonn, the Weingartner Music Festival and the Weilburger Schlosskonzerte, among others. In 2022 the trio also received the Walbusch-Prize of the Jeunesses Musicales Deutschland.

The ensemble's debut CD, featuring trios by Joseph Haydn, Bedřich Smetana and Roman Pawollek, was released in February 2023 on the Leipzig recording label GENUIN.

The artistic activity of the ensemble has been documented by numerous radio and television productions ever since its founding. In 2020, for example, the trio was featured in the NDR program "Podium der Jungen." In 2023, a production for ARD Klassik will be broadcast, featuring trios by Felix Mendelssohn-Bartholdy and Dmitri Shostakovich, as well as several concert recordings by the SWR, NDR and BR.

In addition, the trio E.T.A. was selected as SWR2 New Talent in 2023 and will be promoted over a period of three years with program contributions, concerts and through CD productions.

The musicians can also look back on considerable successes as soloists. They have won prizes in prestigious competitions such as the TONALi Competition, the "Ton und Erklärung" Competition and the Janigro Competition. In addition, they have performed as soloists with the Stuttgart Chamber Orchestra and the Mariinsky Orchestra in halls such as the Laeisz Hall in Hamburg, the Elbphilharmonie, and the Mariinsky Theater.

The Trio E.T.A. is supported by the „Jeunesses Musicales International Chamber Music Campus“ and the Studienstiftung des deutschen Volkes and regularly receives artistic impulses from Dirk Mommertz, Eberhard Feltz, Priya Mitchell and Niklas Schmidt.
